CAMPUS OF TOLEDO

Located in Central Spain, Toledo is the Capital City of the Autonomous Region of Castilla-La Mancha. Nevertheless, this is not the most relevant fact on this magnificent city. Toledo is also known as the “City of the Three Cultures” because Muslims, Jews and Christians lived together peacefully in this city for so many centuries, leaving their indelible trace on Toledo's streets, landmarks and monuments. Back in 1986, UNESCO categorized the old town of the city as World Heritage City. In brief, Toledo is a city that assembles together equally modernity and tradition.

The UCLM has consolidated its position in Toledo with two campuses that represents at their best the soul and spirit of the city. On the one hand, the “Old Town” campus, which is composed of the Faculty of Jurisprudence and Social Sciences and the Faculty of Humanities, perfectly represent the historical and cultural heritage of Toledo. On the other hand, the “Fábrica de Armas Campus” (Campus of Weapons Factory in English) symbolizes in an excellent manner the fusion of traditional heritage with a Science-Technology Campus. With around 5,300 students in accordance with 2015 statistics, the facilities of the Campus of Toledo are equipped with non-polluting alternative energies and with cutting edge, technology that let the UCLM proffers the best educational and training opportunities to our students.

On the UCLM Campus of Toledo, students can study not just a Bachelor's Degree in numerous disciplines such as Humanities, Architecture, Engineering or Jurisprudence, but also complete and enlarge their education and employability by means of the post-graduate courses and Master's Degrees and internships at public and private companies. This is all possible thanks to the UCLM's strategy to connect the theoretical knowledge acquired at the faculty with the experience background that can only be learnt in the workplace.
